

540
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact: David Mayorga, 703-489-4089

EQUATORIAL GUINEA STRENGTHENING EDUCATION WITH PARTNER UNIVERSITY AGREEMENTS

MALABO (June 23, 2010) – The vice president of the National University of Equatorial Guinea or UNGE (Universidad Nacional de Guinea Ecuatorial), Manuela Roca, recently held a meeting with the Director of Services of the General Secretariat of Las Palmas University from Gran Canaria, Spain, Dina Malo Molina, along with Sabayo Clemente González, Director of Services, to discuss improvement opportunities and ways to further education.

After the meeting and a press conference, officials from both universities explained that their goal is to further look into the development of agreements between the academic institutions, based on the exchange of students and strengthening pedagogical matters. This is part of a broader effort by the government of Equatorial Guinea (República de Guinea Ecuatorial) to further improve its education. Manuela Roca told reporters the positive contribution Las Palmas University can make to the UNGE on the development of new approaches in teaching.

Additionally, the meeting served to expose the UNGE to the opportunity and benefits of participating in the Third International Workshop of African Universities to be held on September 10th -14th in Las Palmas of Gran Canaria. Equatorial Guinea's university officials looked at this proposal with great interest.

The meeting was also attended by other officials and teachers of the UNGE.

About Equatorial Guinea

The Republic of Equatorial Guinea (República de Guinea Ecuatorial) is the only Spanish-speaking country in Africa, and one of the smallest nations on the continent. In the late-1990s, American companies helped discover the country's oil and natural gas resources, which only within the last five years began contributing to the global energy supply. Equatorial Guinea is now working to serve as a pillar of stability and security in its region of West Central Africa. The country will host the 2011 Summit of the African Union. For more information, visit <http://www.guineaequatorialpress.com>.

###

This has been distributed by Qorvis Communications, LLC on behalf the Republic of Equatorial Guinea. More information on this relationship is on file at the United States Department of Justice, Washington, DC.

RECEIVED
UNIT
JUN 23 PM 5:32

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact: David Mayorga, 703-489-4089

EQUATORIAL GUINEA STRENGTHENING EDUCATION WITH PARTNER
UNIVERSITY AGREEMENTS

MALABO (June 23, 2010) -- The vice president of the National University of Equatorial Guinea or UNGE (Universidad Nacional de Guinea Ecuatorial), Manuela Roca, recently held a meeting with the Director of Services of the General Secretariat of Las Palmas University from Gran Canaria, Spain, Dina Malo Molina, along with Sabayo Clemente González, Director of Services, to discuss improvement opportunities and ways to further education.

After the meeting and a press conference, officials from both universities explained that their goal is to further look into the development of agreements between the academic institutions, based on the exchange of students and strengthening pedagogical matters. This is part of a broader effort by the government of Equatorial Guinea (República de Guinea Ecuatorial) to further improve its education. Manuela Roca told reporters the positive contribution Las Palmas University can make to the UNGE on the development of new approaches in teaching.

Additionally, the meeting served to expose the UNGE to the opportunity and benefits of participating in the Third International Workshop of African Universities to be held on September 10th -14th in Las Palmas of Gran Canaria. Equatorial Guinea's university officials looked at this proposal with great interest.

The meeting was also attended by other officials and teachers of the UNGE.

About Equatorial Guinea

The Republic of Equatorial Guinea (República de Guinea Ecuatorial) is the only Spanish-speaking country in Africa, and one of the smallest nations on the continent. In the late 1990s, American companies helped discover the country's oil and natural gas resources, which only within the last five years began contributing to the global energy supply. Equatorial Guinea is now working to serve as a pillar of stability and security in its region of West Central Africa. The country will host the 2011 Summit of the African Union. For more information, visit <http://www.guineaecuatorialpress.com>.

###

This has been distributed by Qorvis Communications, LLC on behalf the Republic of Equatorial Guinea. More information on this relationship is on file at the United States Department of Justice, Washington, DC.

2010 JUN 23 PM 3:33

11-00000000
UNIT

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact: David Mayorga, 703-489-4089

EQUATORIAL GUINEA STRENGTHENING EDUCATION WITH PARTNER
UNIVERSITY AGREEMENTS

MALABO (June 23, 2010) – The vice president of the National University of Equatorial Guinea or UNGE (Universidad Nacional de Guinea Ecuatorial), Manuela Roca, recently held a meeting with the Director of Services of the General Secretariat of Las Palmas University from Gran Canaria, Spain, Dina Malo Molina, along with Sabayo Clemente Gonzálcz, Director of Services, to discuss improvement opportunities and ways to further education.

After the meeting and a press conference, officials from both universities explained that their goal is to further look into the development of agreements between the academic institutions, based on the exchange of students and strengthening pedagogical matters. This is part of a broader effort by the government of Equatorial Guinea (República de Guinea Ecuatorial) to further improve its education. Manuela Roca told reporters the positive contribution Las Palmas University can make to the UNGE on the development of new approaches in teaching.

Additionally, the meeting served to expose the UNGE to the opportunity and benefits of participating in the Third International Workshop of African Universities to be held on September 10th -14th in Las Palmas of Gran Canaria. Equatorial Guinea's university officials looked at this proposal with great interest.

The meeting was also attended by other officials and teachers of the UNGE.

About Equatorial Guinea

The Republic of Equatorial Guinea (República de Guinea Ecuatorial) is the only Spanish-speaking country in Africa, and one of the smallest nations on the continent. In the late-1990s, American companies helped discover the country's oil and natural gas resources, which only within the last five years began contributing to the global energy supply. Equatorial Guinea is now working to serve as a pillar of stability and security in its region of West Central Africa. The country will host the 2011 Summit of the African Union. For more information, visit <http://www.guineaequatorialpress.com>.

###

This has been distributed by Qorvis Communications, LLC on behalf the Republic of Equatorial Guinea. More information on this relationship is on file at the United States Department of Justice, Washington, DC.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact: David Mayorga, 703-489-4089

EQUATORIAL GUINEA STRENGTHENING EDUCATION WITH PARTNER
UNIVERSITY AGREEMENTS

MALABO (June 23, 2010) – The vice president of the National University of Equatorial Guinea or UNGE (Universidad Nacional de Guinea Ecuatorial), Manuela Roca, recently held a meeting with the Director of Services of the General Secretariat of Las Palmas University from Gran Canaria, Spain, Dina Malo Molina, along with Sabayo Clemente González, Director of Services, to discuss improvement opportunities and ways to further education.

After the meeting and a press conference, officials from both universities explained that their goal is to further look into the development of agreements between the academic institutions, based on the exchange of students and strengthening pedagogical matters. This is part of a broader effort by the government of Equatorial Guinea (República de Guinea Ecuatorial) to further improve its education. Manuela Roca told reporters the positive contribution Las Palmas University can make to the UNGE on the development of new approaches in teaching.

Additionally, the meeting served to expose the UNGE to the opportunity and benefits of participating in the Third International Workshop of African Universities to be held September 10th -14th in Las Palmas of Gran Canaria. Equatorial Guinea's university officials looked at this proposal with great interest.

The meeting was also attended by other officials and teachers of the UNGE.

About Equatorial Guinea

The Republic of Equatorial Guinea (República de Guinea Ecuatorial) is the only Spanish-speaking country in Africa, and one of the smallest nations on the continent. In the late-1990s, American companies helped discover the country's oil and natural gas resources, which only within the last five years began contributing to the global energy supply. Equatorial Guinea is now working to serve as a pillar of stability and security in its region of West Central Africa. The country will host the 2011 Summit of the African Union. For more information, visit <http://www.guineaequatorialpress.com>.

###

This has been distributed by Qorvis Communications, LLC on behalf the Republic of Equatorial Guinea. More information on this relationship is on file at the United States Department of Justice, Washington, DC.

2010 JUN 23 PM 5:33

NOTES/MAIL
UNIT